

In the heart of the South African bush, poachers are waging war on our national pride and raping our natural heritage.

Attacking with weapons of war, they kill our precious rhinos, hacking off their horns with callous disregard and utmost savagery. They then slip away into the shadows of the night, secure in the knowledge that they are virtually undetectable.

Beware the foolhardy ranger who dares to follow, walking blindly into the possibility of an ambush. Time has come to assist the rangers of the Kruger National Park to stop this slaughter.

They will “Own The Night.”

The SANParks Honorary Rangers, a dedicated volunteer organisation in support of SANParks, need top companies to help us regain the initiative and help our rangers to “Own The Night!”

We are raising ten million rand to buy a dedicated counter poaching helicopter which will be based in Kruger National Park. This helicopter will be equipped with a state of the art thermal imaging camera, which can reach through the veil of darkness and expose any poacher. It can also insert counter poaching teams in to key positions, to stop these poachers in their tracks.

If you can assist our rangers, please contact us:
